U.S. PATENT AWARDED TO GUTTERGLOVE

Rocklin company's self-cleaning system keeps leaves, pine needles and sand out of gutters

ROCKLIN – Grass Valley native Robert Lenney announced today that his company, Gutterglove, Inc. was awarded a Patent by the U.S. government on Christmas Day, December 25, for the unique design, construction and materials of Gutterglove, the company's revolutionary, self-cleaning gutter guard system.

Lenney, a graduate of Forest Lake Christian High School, who also attended Sierra College, Western Baptist College and National University, is founder of the Placer County company that has created Gutterglove, a revolutionary, proven self-cleaning gutter guard system. Lenney's parents, Bob and Dee Dee Lenney reside in Grass Valley and are amongst the thousands of proud owners of a Gutterglove system on their home.

Gutterglove's unique system incorporates an anodized perforated aluminum frame supporting an extremely fine stainless steel mesh that allows only water to filter through the gutters and out the drains. All debris, including leaves, pine needles and even sand are blocked by Gutterglove's system.

Lenney invented Gutterglove. The entrepreneur has cleaned millions of feet of gutter during his career, but he became very disappointed in the poor performance of the typical gutter guards in the industry. So he worked to improve upon the existing gutter guard technology by creating a significantly better system that is tremendously durable and that outlasts and outperforms all competitors by a wide margin.

The system is so effective that it has now earned U.S. Patent No. 7,310,912

"I are tremendously thrilled and honored to be awarded a patent for the design of Gutterglove," said Lenney. "This simply validates our goal of producing a gutter guard system that outperforms all other systems and actually keeps the homeowner off the roof." Lenny went on to say, "It's especially meaningful that our patent is awarded on Christmas day, this brings special meaning to me because of my faith in God. What a Christmas present!"

To prove his point and explain how Gutterglove works, Lenney produced a 30-minute, informational television show that has been honored with numerous awards for its high-quality visual effects. The TV show, which is available through his website (<http://www.gutterglove.com>), is the best way to demonstrate how and why Gutterglove is so effective in keeping leaves, pine needles and other debris out of the rain gutter.
